

PREPARING FOR BIG CONVENTION OF MINING MEN

Representative Utah Delegation to Exploit Resources of This State.

CITY LOGICAL CENTER FOR MINING TEMPLE

OFFICERS ARE ELECTED FOR UTAH BRANCH OF NATIONAL CONGRESS.

Officers were chosen and plans formulated to exploit Utah's mineral resources in the meeting of the board of directors of the Utah branch of the American Mining Congress in the Commercial club at 12:30 yesterday noon. The officials of the mining organization now are:

President, Captain Duncan MacVichie of Salt Lake.
Vice president, C. E. Looe of Provo.
Secretary, W. E. Vigns of Salt Lake.
Treasurer, M. H. Walker of Salt Lake.
Seven directors, with John Dorn, chairman of the board, presiding, were in session for two and one-half hours. The men there, all of whom have big mining interests in Utah, were Samuel Newhouse, D. C. Jackling, John Dorn, David Keith, D. MacVichie, N. A. Dunyon and E. A. Wall. The two remaining directors, Dr. J. E. Talmage and C. E. Looe, were absent because of important business matters.

The resignation of Colonel E. A. Wall as a member of the board of directors was received and accepted and C. W. Saxman chosen in his stead. The report of the committee on by-laws was read and adopted. The various sub-committees of the organization will be chosen by the officers at a later date.

Convention Is Discussed.

Offers of official positions in the organization were tendered by the directors to Samuel Newhouse, D. C. Jackling and John Dorn, all of whom have been extremely active in forming and perfecting the Utah branch and developing the state's mining interests. All three men expressed their gratitude for the honors tendered them, but were unable to accept. Mr. Newhouse and Mr. Jackling because of their extensive business interests, while Mr. Dorn is already a member of the national board of directors of the American Mining Congress.

The big convention of the American Mining Congress, which will be held in Pittsburgh, Pa., on Dec. 2, 3, 4 and 5, was discussed and it was decided to make every possible effort to send a full representation of Utah delegates there. A paper will also be prepared and read in the convention by one of the Utah delegates, wherein facts in regard to Utah's mineral riches and development will be related and eastern investors will be informed of the possibilities of Utah's mining future.

The directors discussed the probability that the American mining congress will remove its official headquarters from Denver, because of the failure of the Colorado metropolis to keep its promises, and all were agreed that Salt Lake would be the logical center for the location of the mining temple. Pending the action of the convention, no plans were formed in the meeting to deprive Denver of the prize, but the decision was reached to have the Utah delegation in readiness to capture the headquarters in case of a decision to remove them.

Salt Lake Logical Center.

It was pointed out in the meeting that the convention will first have to take the headquarters away from Denver and, if this happens, which now seems very probable, the Utah delegation will immediately go to the front and leave no stone unturned to capture the headquarters for Salt Lake. It will be shown that this city is the logical and geographical center of the intermountain district, and is now in the heart of the greatest mining development in the west.

Denver is off to one side of the mining district now, and the development in the adjoining country does not begin to compare with that of Utah, so one member stated. The convention will be told that in the work of the congress along other lines, such as securing necessary legislation for the protection of mine owners and investors, Utah has always been in the front, and will be in the future, because of the extensive interests and powerful influence of mining men in Utah.

FIVE MEMBERS OF FOOTBALL TEAM PLUCKED

Latest Move of Discipline Committee Brings Matters to Acute Stage.

HAIR-CUTTING INCIDENT MAY RESULT SERIOUSLY

MADDOCK IS DISGUSTED AND ENGINEERS THREATEN GENERAL WALK-OUT.

The suspension of seven men, including five of the best players on the football team, is the latest move that the discipline committee has made in the turmoil at the university. It is the students' turn today and it is highly probable that a walkout of about 150 engineers will be their move.

The trouble that grew out of the suspension of Johns Looibourou for participation in the cutting of Borgquist's hair has reached a far more serious stage than was ever expected by either the students or the faculty and for a time yesterday it threatened the existence of the football team. The recent developments have only added fire to the already overheated atmosphere of the students and lively developments are expected at the meeting of the student body called for 11:30 this morning.

The past history of the affair is that the engineers decided to use one of the limited number of absences that are allowed each student, on election day, Borgquist, a sophomore, refused to accede to this and when H. Richardson questioned him for appearing at school, Borgquist pulled a club from under his coat and struck Richardson on the head. Looibourou, with nineteen others, punished Borgquist with a haircut. Borgquist told President Kingsbury and the discipline committee gave Looibourou a week's suspension.

Seven Are Suspended.

The announcement that Looibourou alone was sentenced for the act committed by himself and nineteen others angered the engineers, who met and decided unanimously to plead guilty to the charge placed against Looibourou and ask for the same punishment. The discipline committee refused to alter this decision.

Yesterday the discipline committee met again, with President Kingsbury sitting in place of Professor Johnson, who is out of the city. And found H. Richardson, D. C. Jackling, Leland Walker, Dez Bennion, A. Seymour, R. Grant and W. H. Hume guilty of the offense as Looibourou and to the charge to which they with a hundred other engineers had pleaded guilty the previous afternoon, and suspended them for a week.

The suspension of these seven men, and the sending of the hundred others to stand behind them in the hair-cutting, met with great disfavor, especially since five of them are football players. H. Richardson, who is out of the city, is right end; Hume, right end; Hume, right tackle; Grant, quarterback; and D. Richardson, left halfback, and their absence from the team will tear a big hole in the game with Wyoming Saturday and with Boulder on the Saturday following.

Coach Maddock Is Aroused.

This condition made the students extremely indignant and Coach Maddock did not hesitate to express himself. "I do not know," said he, "what we can do without these men, as they are the mainstay of the team. We were bumped once before this season. In the beginning of the year we developed five good men at the early training, and they made the training table, but were not allowed to go to Colorado because of strict eligibility rules. I believe in clean sport and eligibility rules, but not in rules that are made up to keep the good men out. I believe in clean sport and eligibility rules, but not in rules that are made up to keep the good men out. I believe in clean sport and eligibility rules, but not in rules that are made up to keep the good men out."

The faculty is divided, it is said, and there is more than one student sympathizer. The engineers are well united and it is predicted that the movement will be the action of the convention. The local and geographical center of the intermountain district, and is now in the heart of the greatest mining development in the west.

Denver is off to one side of the mining district now, and the development in the adjoining country does not begin to compare with that of Utah, so one member stated. The convention will be told that in the work of the congress along other lines, such as securing necessary legislation for the protection of mine owners and investors, Utah has always been in the front, and will be in the future, because of the extensive interests and powerful influence of mining men in Utah.

TYPEWRITER NEEDED FOR INSTRUCTION OF BLIND

Movement to Lighten Burdens of Sightless Persons Is Progressing Rapidly.

There's a good chance for some generous-minded person to help along the good work already started by the auxiliary of the reading room for the blind by presenting the society with a typewriter. By typewriter, is meant a machine, not an operator, for it is designed to teach the blind to use the typewriter, and Miss Helen Allen has already given her services for this work. But a machine is needed, and a certain popular make which is generally used by the blind is sought for this purpose. Lessons are to be given in the library, where the readings are going on three times a week.

Besides all this, other interesting things are progressing for the auxiliary, and at a meeting held on Wednesday three new standing committees were appointed, press, entertainment and book committees, with Mrs. George Y. Wallace, Mrs. W. S. McCormick and Mrs. J. S. Snyder as chairmen of the three. The sum of $50 is to be spent immediately for books as the beginning of a library for the blind. With the books on hand it is hoped that a good many of the adult blind will be formed into classes to learn the difficult art of reading with the fingers.

The entertainment committee is planning a reception for early in December, when some music will be heard, and probably some of the work of the blind will be exhibited. The main purpose of this reception will be to familiarize the public with the movement, to help the blind to help themselves more than it is possible for them to do at present.

SCORES OF MEN ARE RUSHING WORK ON COLONIAL THEATRE

Playhouse to Be Opened Nov. 18, With Nordica Concert, Is Most Attractive in the Intermountain Region.

With 100 men working on double shifts, day and night, and work being pushed ahead with all possible rapidity, the Colonial theatre, the new and beautiful playhouse now going up on Third South street, will be entirely completed and its doors thrown open to the public on Nov. 18. It will be by far the most elaborate and pretentious structure of its kind in the intermountain region.

It is now a veritable beehive of activity with workmen swarming all over it and under positive orders to rush everything ahead. The interior of the playhouse has assumed definite shape and its artistic lines and decorations foretell its beauty. It will represent an investment when completed of $15,000, and is owned by Mrs. Eveline A. Auerbach.

Corps of Contractors.

The theatre building is being put up by the following concerns:
J. H. Brittain, Salt Lake, general contractor; all brick, stone, concrete, steel and carpenter work.
August Rudine, Salt Lake, principal subcontractor; all mason work.

The Campbell Building company, Salt Lake City; excavation, part of foundation walls.
Architectural Decorating company, Seattle, plain and ornamental plastering.
The Mitchell & Halbach company, Chicago; decorating, painting and brass railings.
The Greenwald Furniture company, Salt Lake City; draperies and carpets and chairs for boxes.

The T. H. Hansen Electrical company, Salt Lake City; electric wiring.
The Will Rees Plumbing company, Salt Lake City; steam heating, ventilation and plumbing.
The A. H. Andrews company, Chicago; opera chairs.
Twin City Scenic company, Minneapolis; curtains and scenery.

Salt Lake's amusement lovers will see the Colonial theatre opened in grand style for the world-famous Nordica and her concert company will be the first attraction there. Seats for the first night will open on Nov. 12 and prices will range from $1 to $5, with no auction sale.

Balcony Floor Promenade.

Entrance to the theatre will be through an attractive tile-floored lobby, 100 feet deep and 20 feet wide. One-half way down the lobby from the street will be the manager's office and ticket office on the right hand side going in. The lobby will lead into a foyer, 20x30 feet in dimensions.

One of the features of the foyer, one that is unique and very recent in theatre building, will be the balcony floor promenade, 10 feet wide, which will run around the foyer. It will be enclosed by a balustrade and will be an attractive place to stroll between acts or to view people surging into the playhouse.

Leading from the foyer will be a smoking room, the right hand side of the foyer, a dressing room on the left side. The ticket office for the gallery will lead from the foyer.

GALLANT YOUTH IS TRAPPED UP

American Beauties Responsible for the Undoing of Hyrum Youngberg

The desire of the young lady of his affections for large, red, long-stemmed American Beauties, led Hyrum Youngberg to jail last night. While it was not the first slip from the path of virtue made by Youngberg, it was undoubtedly the most foolish. Some days ago a check book, a book of street car tickets and 50 cents in cash were stolen from the office of E. M. West in the D. F. Walker building. It now seems probable that these articles were stolen by Youngberg.

Yesterday afternoon he entered the store of the Hubbard Floral company, at 111 East Second South street, and ordered $7 worth of American Beauties. He tendered a check for $11 and received $4 in change. He ordered the flowers sent to the Halliday Drug company, at State and First South streets, where he said he would call for them. Shortly after the check was received it was discovered to be worthless, and the police were at once notified.

In accordance with their instructions, an empty box bearing the name of the Hubbard Floral company was sent to the Halliday Drug company. Detectives Wilson and Golding lay in wait for the young man who came to call for the flowers. He was at once seized by the officers, taken to the station, and the young woman, who had accompanied him to the drug store but who had remained outside, left hurriedly as soon as she saw the young fellow in the hands of the officers. Youngberg put up quite a little struggle on the journey to the station, and the officers were forced to use considerable force to take him along. The check book taken from E. M. West's office was found in his possession.

About three years ago the young man was arrested for the theft of a diamond valued at $25, and for several other burglaries, and was sent to the reform school. He was an inmate of the school for about a year and is now out on parole.

MRS. C. C. PARSONS SEEKS DIVORCE

Says Her Husband Indicated Desire to Sever All Relations With Her.

THINKS HER A BURDEN
WIFE ASKS FOR $500 A MONTH ALIMONY.

Jennie B. Parsons yesterday instituted an action for divorce in the district court against C. C. Parsons. The wife, in addition to asking for a divorce, asks that the defendant be restrained from disposing of any of his property or removing it from the state, and that he be ordered to come into court and show in detail the value of his property and the amount of his income.

C. C. Parsons, the defendant, is one of the chief attorneys for the Samuel Newhouse.

Soon after her return from Europe, on July 24, 1904, whither she had gone to look after the completion of the education of the daughter in the schools of the continent, Mrs. Parsons says her husband grew apparently morose, and threatened to run away. She says that when she got back from Europe she expected to find a suitable home furnished for her, but when she came to a realization of the situation she found that her husband had made arrangements for her at a hotel. Presently, she says, he refused to live with her at all, and tried to induce her to enter into an agreement whereby she should try to get a separation from him, and at the same time, she says, he claimed that she was a burden on him. His separation from her was against her will.

It is related that after the second marriage the defendant was given to moody spells and clearly indicated by his actions that he did not longer desire to live with the plaintiff.

The blaze had assumed a threatening aspect before the fire department arrived, but was quickly conquered.
